

The QuietHire Accumulator

QuietHire has created a specialized service that will undoubtedly help capture visitors to an Employer's website who otherwise might leave should they not find a current opportunity of interest. Most of today's companies design internet-based sites that are primarily aimed at capturing something from their visitors. Company websites are primarily interested in having potential employee visitors submit their resumes for current employment opportunities. Should a potential employee visit the site and NOT find a current opportunity, the visitor is likely to leave without leaving a resume. Also, high end employees may not wish to leave a resume for fear of reprisal from their current employer.

The QuietHire Accumulator is designed to allow those visitors the opportunity to "drop off" their completely anonymous and confidential profile in the QuietHire database. In that way subscribing customers will maintain access to potential employee who have expressed distinct interest in the company as well as potential employees that may have created profiles from competing company websites.

We are confident this process will eventually benefit all subscribing corporations! Given that belief, QuietHire is freely distributing the embedded logo link to any interested party. Please contact our sales team if you have interest in receiving the link to our embedded logo!
